

“How to Investigate Police Policy and Procedures and why Police do what they do.”

Frank DeAndrea, Jr.

Frank DeAndrea, Jr. has nearly 40 years of Law Enforcement and Investigations experience to include the United States Army Military Police, retired Pennsylvania State Police Sergeant, prior Chief of Police City of Hazleton, Pennsylvania and is the President of DeAndrea Investigations & Security LLC. Mr. DeAndrea is a court certified expert in fingerprint and footwear comparisons, evidence collection, crime scene processing, forensic photography, and gaming enforcement. He designed the first mobile computer solution for the Pennsylvania State Police, building the Motorola prototype in his garage. He is also a subject matter expert on police policy and procedure investigations, how to investigate police departments and financial abuse of older adults. He has written multiple regulations for state and municipal police departments and assisted in writing the Pennsylvania Gaming Regulations when he opened and commanded the first Pennsylvania State Police barracks at the first casino in Pennsylvania. Having supervised thousands of background and financial crime investigations and holding the distinction of having been a Federal, State and Municipal Police Officer, Mr. DeAndrea has spoken on Capitol Hill and the Pennsylvania State Capitol, consults and trains federal and state congressmen, senators, and representatives, and frequently lectures to federal, state and local law enforcement agencies and private investigators in police policy and procedure related issues and financial crimes. Mr. DeAndrea is also a certified and active Pennsylvania Police Academy Instructor, a member of several state and international private investigator associations and remains active in his community. He can be reached at: Frank@DeAndrea.biz